

April 1865

A group of women in COLUMBUS, Mississippi marched to Friendship Cemetery to put flowers on the graves of Union and Confederate soldiers who had died at SHILOH. They met some resistance, but the generosity they showed in decorating both gray & blue groves made national headlines